„ 10th..	75	12mo.	First ...	500	ditto ...	0 8 0	Kédárnáth Gánguli, of No. 14, Góalpára Lane, Ultádingi.	This Drama describes how an educated Bengali, though having a lawful wife, enters into a liason with a woman of the town, who has a brother in love with the Báboo's widowed sister, who supplies him with money; this money flows on both sides from this Báboo's pockets. His sister runs off and his mistress sues him on a bond for Rs. 10,000, which is paid by the mother of the Báboo, who now comes to his senses and becomes a better member of society. The writer of the drama expresses a desire to root out many social evils; but in making a prostitute one of the principal actors on the stage, corrupt ideas are necessarily left on the mind.
